Freedom of Expression Weekly Newsletter (Issue 40/21 - October 15, 2021)

What happened last week?

- Republican People's Party (CHP) leader Kılıçdaroğlu stated, "I am concerned that political murders may be committed" and his statement was followed by the statements of İYİ Party Deputy Chairman Koray Aydın, "we have similar feelings" and Future Party Leader Davutoğlu's statement, "our friends warn us to be careful as well". Presidential Spokesperson Fahrettin Altun responded to the statement by saying that they were "an effort to create a climate of fear", and the Ankara Chief Public Prosecutor's Office launched an investigation into the allegations.
- While calls for and the possibility of early elections gained strength, discussions on the "Kurdish Question", which is the critical determinant of political alliances, also gained momentum. Opposition parties show GNAT as the address for solution while accepting the problem, and see the People's Democratic Party (HDP) and other Kurdish political formations as an addressee. For now, the Palace maintains their stance, "The Kurdish problem is no longer existent, we solved it". In a joint statement made by 15 bar associations in Kurdish provinces, it was stated, "We consider it essential to include all segments of society in the search for a solution to the Kurdish problem."
- Events organised on the 6th anniversary of the October 10 Ankara Train Station Massacre, in which 103 people lost their lives and more than 500 were injured, were prevented and the ongoing trial in Ankara is in danger of coming to a deadlock. Although the police and intelligence correspondence reflected in the press revealed a "fault of the state", no administrative or judicial investigation has been initiated against any public official yet. While no attempt was made to find the fugitive suspects, the lawyers say that the court continues to leave information about the suspect or witness ISIS members mentioned in the file, or their other demands unanswered, and that this "decreases their belief that justice will be established".
- The perpetrator Onur Gencer, who killed People's Democratic Party (HDP) member Deniz Poyraz in the attack against the HDP Provincial Chairmanship on June 17, 2021 in İzmir, was charged with "willful homicide", "violating workplace immunity" and "damaging a building, facility used by political parties or professional organizations" with a claim of aggravated life imprisonment and up to seven years in prison. The HDP management insists that the attack was planned; however, the judicial authorities are not attempting to deepen the investigation.
- The Council of State upheld the decision of the Ministry of Interior to pay compensation of 1 million 66 thousand liras to the family of Hrant Dink, the Editor-in-Chief of Agos Daily, who was murdered due to the "defects in service".

- Erdoğan dismissed Central Bank Vice-Presidents Semih Tümen and Uğur Namık Küçük, as well as Abdullah Yavaş, the only Monetary Policy Committee Member who did not sign the final interest rate decision. The US dollar, which gained momentum with the depreciation and interest rate cuts after the dismissals, continues to break records against the TL...
- Two police officers lost their lives in the attack targeting Turkish military forces in Northern Syria (Rojava); Erdogan hinted at a possible new cross-border operation, saying "we have no patience"...
